

Think before you send.....

We are always highlighting the possible risks of the misuse of social media with our students. This term in particular through Lifeskills lessons, Tutor time and assemblies – we want students to stop and think before they send a text message, email or image. This campaign coincides with the LSCB and WY partners who launched the “Think before you send” campaign on Tuesday 4th August across West Yorkshire

Students must ask themselves, would I be ok receiving this message? Will it hurt me or someone else if I send this? Do I trust the person I am sending this to? Do I really have control over who sees what? Could this message be misconstrued?
